

Living Luminaries:

THE SERIOUS BUSINESS OF HAPPINESS

Produced by Michael J Lasky

Gotham Metro Studios is a feature motion picture and television production company whose core business is to 'Enlighten and Entertain'. The Gotham companies create, develop, produce and distribute: multi-media content, feature films for worldwide theatrical release, digital media for television, DVD, radio and emerging new digital media.

As its core mission the company is committed to creating programs that impart something more than sheer entertainment. Gotham has branded the "New A-List" with a new emerging leverage for theatrical distribution by casting stellar spiritual and "Cultural Creative" celebrities to share with the world the gift of their true persona. This 'cross-over' placement from mega-selling author/public speakers to the modern docu-drama venue is a new theatrical opportunity for audiences looking for more conscious, artistic and compelling films.

Gotham Metro Studios, the production company, has developed a slate of films in the consciousness genre with the first film, Living Luminaries (on The Serious Business of Happiness). It is in some ways a prequel to the next film, The Serious Business of Happiness.(SBoFH) Living Luminaries is a progressive minded church friendly film, whereas

SBoFH is more mature audience oriented in content, with more drama, less interview time, more music, and a longer 'entertaining' story line. (docu-drama)

Gotham's next films in the "Serious Business" franchise , in preparation include working titles-

The Serious Business of Peace (and war)

The Serious Business of Health!

The Serious Business of Love (and sex)

Gotham has developed a radio show, LIVING LUMINARIES which also lends itself well as a television show format featuring round table interviews with remarkable visionaries, luminaries and heroes in the "Cultural Creative" world of mind-body-soul subject matter. New York Times' best-selling authors Eckart Tolle, Marianne Williamson, Don Miguel Ruiz and Matthew Kelly are some of the most celebrated authors and metaphysical thinkers of our time.

The Luminary cast list also includes Geronimo JiJaga (formerly known as Geronimo Pratt), Robert A. Schuller (of the Crystal Cathedral)

In the self-realization genre of the films, like "What the Bleep", "Living Luminaries" is initially distributing the film through non-traditional channels like non-denominational and New Thought churches like Unity and Religious Science in addition to yoga centers and consciousness oriented organizations.

There have been several special screenings to date with the film enjoying some very encouraging reviews;

"By far, the best film of this genre, to date!"

(Susan D. Los Angeles)

"This film delivers. A ten".

(Mike P. Honolulu)

"I need to see it again. A few more times!"

(Jan C. Honolulu)

"Such deep insight delivered with an ease of comprehension for most audiences".

(Steven A., Los Angeles)
